WILSON PARADE FRIDAY EVENING

Delegations from Other Towns and Five Bands will be in Line. Demonstration Planned to Eclipse all Former Parades.

Unless the plans made by the Wilson and Marshall Club for a parade Friday evening, to celebrate the victory of their candidates, miscarries, Gettysburg will probably witness the most enthusiastic demonstration in her history. Word has been received from adjoining towns in the county that they will send large delegations, and at least five bands will be in line. Floats, banners and costumes are in course of construction that will amuse advocates of the defeated parties as well as those on the winning side. College students expressed dissatisfaction at the treatment received from a certain class of town boys on their way to the campus after the Halloween parade and declared they would not take part in future town celebrations. They have been promised full protection for this occasion and their band with a number of other students is expected to be in line Friday evening.

Harry Riddemose of McKnightstown, will act as chief marshal. His aids will be Wm. Spalding, Joseph Smith, Bernard Hoffman, Emanuel Wisotzkey, George Spangler, Victor Duttera and Harry Holtzworth. There will be four divisions; the first one headed by Dr. H. M. Hartman and consisting of the Citizens' band with all participants on foot. Prof. George Rice will act as marshal of the second division which will consist of the College Band and students. Marshal of the third division will be William Daily, followed by bands and delegations from Littlestown and Andertown. The fourth division will consist of Clifford Bream, Marshal, with all town and country teams and horse-back riders.

The formation of parade will be at Meade School Building, as follows: First division on Springs Avenue; second division on West street; third division on Franklin street; Fourth division on Buford Avenue.

The Andertown delegation on North Franklin and the Littlestown delegation on South Franklin street.

All persons taking part are requested to report to Chief Marshal not later than 7.15 at Meade School, the parade will move promptly at 7.30 east on Chambersburg street to Center Square, east on York to Liberty, south to East Middle to West Middle to Franklin street, south to High street, east to Washington street, south to Breckenridge street, east to Baltimore street, and south to Steinwehr Avenue, and Baltimore street. Then counter march north on Baltimore street to Center Square, north on Carlisle street to Water street, west on Water street to Washington street, north on Washington to Lincoln Avenue, east on Lincoln Avenue to Carlisle street, south on Carlisle street to Stevens street, east on Stevens street to Stratton street, and west on York street to Center Square. At this point the parade will be dismissed.

SURPRISE PARTY

A very enjoyable birthday surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Culp on Monday evening in honor of their grand daughter, Margaret Williams. The evening was spent in music and playing games, after which refreshments were served. Miss Williams received many useful and beautiful presents. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Culp, Mrs. Williams, Miss Emma Culp, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Plank and family, Mrs. Jere Bender, Marion Deardorff, Lawrence Sheds, Ruth Bream, Howard Spangler, William Troxell, Stella Hiddle, Wilbur Stallsmith, Helen Williams, Nellie Ramer, William Flair, Sarah Mumper, Charles Wible, John Stable, Grace Rudisill, Arthur Hutchison, Eva Deardorff, Ralph Dietrick, Clarence Monk, Miss Helen Cops, Miss Nell Blocher, Walter Reynolds, Mary Radisill, Russell Stauffer, Edgar Eyer, Harriet Miller, Simon Redding Raymond Carbaugh, David Pheasant, Eric Deardorff, and Margaret Williams.

NOVEMBER COURT IN SESSION

Twenty-Nine Cases to be Disposed of. York Springs Hotel Keeper "Not Guilty." Shultz and Kaiser Fined $50.

November term of Criminal Court convened Monday morning and disposed of twenty-two of the twenty-nine cases listed for this session. This is thirteen less than the number listed at the last term of the court but quite a few of the present cases are sufficiently intricate to require some time for their disposition. Indications are that this session will be longer than the preceding one.

Cases already disposed of are as follows: Number 32, from January Term and Nos. 7, 8, 9, 10, and 11 from the April Term; Commonwealth vs. Riffert and Heindel, false pretense was continued on motion of defendants for the reason that material witnesses failed to appear on account of sickness.

No. 19, from Aug. Term; Com. vs. Lewis Culp, public nuisance, settled upon payment of costs by defendant.

No. 21, from Aug. Term; Com. vs. John Fissel, assault and battery, continued.

No. 34, from Aug. Term; Com. vs. George Smith, selling liquor to a person of known intemperate habits, not prosed. Smith, who is the proprietor of the York Springs Hotel, was supposed to have sold whiskey to an habitual drunkard, one Eli Smith, of that town. The case created no little interest throughout that section but the court ruled it out when Jacob Cox, the only witness, swore that Mrs. George Smith sold the whiskey to Eli Smith and that the hotel proprietor was not present at the time of the sale.

No. 40, from Aug. Term, Com. vs. John Yohe, larceny, not prosed, no evidence to support the charge.

No. 41, from Aug. Term, Com. vs. Howard Cole, continued.

No. 1, November Term; Com. vs. Peter Miller, operating a motor cycle without permission from the owner, settled by defendant paying cost.

No. 2, Nov. Com. vs. Mary Weaver, assault and battery, continued, and bond forfeited by reason of non appearance.

No. 11, Nov. Com. vs. Alexander Waters, two counts, carrying concealed weapons, not guilty; assault and battery, ignored by grand jury.

No. 12, Nov. Com. vs. Bruce Tonsil, two counts, furnishing liquor on Sunday, true bill.

No. 13, Nov. Com. vs. William Thompson, furnishing liquor to a minor, guilty.

No. 14, Nov. Com. vs. N. L. Minter, selling adulterated food, case called for argument Tuesday.

No. 16, Nov. Com. vs. Francis Smith, assault and battery, pleaded not contende.

No. 17, Nov. Com. vs. George Willing, larceny by bailee, not prosed for lack of evidence.

No. 18, Nov. Com. vs. Frank Edison, false pretense, continued.

No. 20, Nov. Com. vs. Charles Fissel, assault and battery, not contende.

No. 21-23, Nov. Com. vs. John N. Shultz and George Kaiser, selling spirituous liquors on Sabbath, not contende. This was the famous "Maita Mana" case. Shultz's Cafe and the Washington Hotel opened their bars during a Sunday excursion last Summer and sold this preparation which is advertised as a "soft drink." It actually contains a small per centage of alcohol and technically they were guilty. The court imposed a fine of $50.

No. 24, Nov. Com. vs. Norman Warren, assault and battery, true bill.

No. 26, Nov. Com. vs. Norman Warren, carrying concealed weapons, plead guilty.

No. 27, Nov. Com. vs. John Shultz, statutory offense, continued.

No. 28, Nov. Com. vs. William Fuller, statutory offense continued and bond forfeited.

No. 29, Nov. Com. vs. David Kendall, assault and battery, plead guilty.

Sentence is not imposed upon defendants until the end of the term.

WILL LECTURE ON CHESTNUT BLIGHT

One of Interesting Features of Teachers' Institute in Session November 18-22. Program of day Sessions.

County Superintendent Roth has arranged with the Pennsylvania Chestnut Tree Blight Commission for a display and lecture before the annual county Teachers' Institute on November 21st.

A representative of the Blight Commission will have charge of this display which will consist of specimens, showing the work of the Chestnut Blight disease on different sorts of materials, and also maps, literature and photographs. All who are interested in the subject are invited to view the exhibit. Mr. Walburn the representative, will be glad to answer any questions and give any information that he can.

Chestnut, which is the State's most valuable timber, is now threatened with extinction by the blight. Near Philadelphia three-fourths of the chestnut trees are infected and "the blight is spreading westward to the healthy timber. The State is making every effort to save these trees and is willing to assist all timber owners in detecting the symptoms and getting rid of the source of new infections. Similar displays were held at many of the county fairs this Fall and the interest taken there has convinced the Commission that the people desire to have a knowledge of the disease, such as would be gained only by an exhibit of infected material. Data concerning the treatment of valuable trees may also be had.

The program of the day sessions which is of the usual in active character and the hours of admission are as follows:

ADAMS COUNTY WOMEN DEAD

Deaths Takes Two Women from Lower End of County. Mrs. Annie Glass of Irishtown and Miss Marie Lawrence.

MRS. CONRAD GLASS

Mrs. Annie Glass, widow of Conrad Glass, died Sunday, November 10, at 2 p. m., at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Daniel Staub, near Irishtown, from the effects of a paralytic stroke received about three years ago. Her age was about 75 years.

The deceased, before marriage, was a Miss Fleschman, who was born in Germany, and came to this country many years ago. After living in Baltimore for a few years, the family located in Conowingo township, Adams county. Her husband died 13 years ago, and since that time she lived with her daughter.

She is survived by three sons and three daughters, John Glass, of Spring Grove; Mrs. William Staub, Hanover; Christian and Joseph Glass, Mrs. Annie Staub and Mrs. Mary Carbaugh, of Oxford township, Adams county.

Funeral Wednesday, Nov. 13, requiem mass in the Immaculate Conception Catholic church, New Oxford, at 9 a. m. Rev. Father Shields officiating.

MARIE V. LAWRENCE

Miss Marie V. Lawrence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Lawrence, of Mt. Rock, died at her late home, Sunday, Nov. 10, at 4:30 p. m., after a lingering illness from a complication of diseases, aged 22 years and 11 days.

She is survived by her parents and three brothers, Samuel G. and Frank Lawrence, at home, and Lewis Lawrence, of Sellersville; also four sisters, Miss Anastasia Lawrence, at home; Mrs. Howard Noel, and Mrs. Alphonse Smith, of Mt. Rock, and Mrs. James B. Devine of McSherrystown.

She was a member of the Sacred Heart society of Conowingo Chapel.

Funeral Thursday, Nov. 14, mass of requiem in Conowingo Chapel at 9 a. m. Rev. Germanus Kohl officiating. Interment in Conowingo cemetery.

W. C. T. U. MEETING

Adams County W. C. T. U. will hold a one day conference Saturday, November 16th, in the Methodist Church, Gettysburg. In the morning at 10:15 the executive committee will meet to appoint a superintendent for the different departments of work. The afternoon session will begin at 1:30. Echoes from the 38th annual state convention held at Lancaster, Oct. 5-8, will be given by Mrs. Sanders of Gettysburg. Mrs. Belle Weidner of Andertown and Misses Quickel and Heiges of Biglerville Union. All members of the W. C. T. U. and friends of Temperance are cordially invited to attend the afternoon meeting.

VENDETTA AT YORK?

Unless Joe Mannan, the Sicilian who was seriously stabbed early Sunday morning, at his home, in York, decides to unseat his lips, his assailant or assailants, may never be detected, as the officers, who are working diligently to clear the mystery, confess that the clues they have up to this time are slender and they are unable to make headway in getting information of tangible bearing on the case. That Mannan is the victim of a vendetta is a plausible theory, the detectives base on the injured man's evident aversion to revealing the identity of his assailant, full knowledge of whom they are convinced Mannan possesses.

Mannan is lying in the York Hospital at the point of death and refuses to talk about his assailant.

CRAPSTER--PHILLIPS

Announcements have been received in Gettysburg of the marriage of Thaddeus Crapster, Lieutenant in the U. S. Revenue Cutter Service, to Miss Marie Louise Phillips, of Hillsboro, Texas. Lieutenant Crapster lived in Gettysburg for a number of years before he enlisted in the Revenue Service. Norfolk, Va., will be the future home of Mr. and Mrs. Crapster.

REPEAT SKETCH

The King's Daughters Sunday School Class of St. James Church repeated the playlet "The Champion of her Sex", last evening for the benefit of the Woman's Missionary Society. Their second appearance excited as much favorable comment as the first. They cleared about $20.

REVIVAL CONTINUES

Rev. A. C. Logan, reports a remarkable attendance at the revival services being held in Hunterstown. He gives the following hours of service for his different charges: York Springs 10:30 a. m., Rock Chapel at 2:30 p. m., Hunterstown 7:00 p. m.

NO IMPORTED GOODS

A most interesting order was recently received by the Home Woolen Mills of Chambersburg.

The Hon. W. T. Haines, of Waterville, Maine, who is governor-elect of the State, wrote for cloth for his inauguration suit and overcoat, also for a full dress suit and for white broadcloth for an evening wrap for Mrs. Haines.

The Governor-elect wanted fabrics of the finest quality and only such as were woven in this country and as the merchant tailors claimed that their goods were "imported" he sent to Chambersburg for his requirements as they have the only American Mill selling direct to the consumer.

GAS PLANT SOLD

Howard Young, president of the J. W. Young Company, of Hanover, has purchased the Hanover Gas Company from the Dutton Brothers' who formerly controlled it. The sale was a surprise to Hanover business men, generally. R. Hays Dutton came to Hanover as manager of the company in 1900. Several years later he and his brother purchased a controlling interest in the company. Since that time Mr. Dutton has made numerous improvements at the plant. Mr. Young is prominently identified with business interests in Hanover and Baltimore. The new owner of the plant this week.

The KITCHEN CABINET

HELPFUL HINTS FOR THE HOUSE-WIFE.

Common wooden clothespins, with the name printed on them in ink, make fine napkin holders for a few days' outing.

Use heavy manilla wrapping paper to roll out biscuits or pie crust on. A bottle filled with ice water makes a good rolling pin.

When one has many pieces of cutlery to wash, put them in a deep pail or bowl with a colander underneath. Pour hot water over them until clean, then they will dry very easily.

When drawing threads in table linen, wet the strip to be drawn with water, and keep it wet while pulling the threads, and they will draw out much easier.

Use a crochet hook to knit the thread dropped in a drop stitch stocking, then when fastened there is no ugly strain.

A most beautiful as well as a useful tray may be made by framing any rare lace or choice embroidery in a wooden frame, cover the back with felt to keep it from scratching the table, put handles on the ends and your tray is ready.

When choice toilet soap wears down to a thin piece, place it while wet on a new cake, and when dry it will be a part of it.

Oil children's shoes with vaseline and they will wear better and be waterproof.

Use a grater to remove a slight scorch from bread or cake.

When cooling pies, place them on a raised surface so that the air may circulate under them. It will save the crusts from being soggy many times.

Mend veils with hair and the rent will not be noticed.

When leaving tubs for some time, put into the bottom and well up on the sides several thicknesses of paper, then pour in several gallons of water. The paper will hold the moisture long after the water has evaporated from the tub.

Darn table linen on the machine. Remove the foot, place the linen in embroidery loops and darn back and forth with stitching.

Nellie Maxwell.

EUROPE NOW FACES CRISIS

Situation May Lead to General War if Not Adjusted.

JEALOUSIES ARE INTENSE

Austria and Russia Are Preparing For Eventualities in the Balkan War.

London, Nov. 12.—Europe is facing one of the most critical weeks in her history. It may end in a war in which the whole of Europe will be involved, or it may be remembered as a week in which diplomacy succeeded in solving problems that appeared insoluble to many.

The Bulgarian army is on the point of entering Constantinople, and this will be resented by Russia. At the same time, the Turkish capital is threatened with massacre from within.

On the other side of the Balkan peninsula there is an acute conflict between the aims of Austria-Hungary and Serbia, which, if it is not arranged, might start a general European outbreak.

The most hopeful sign at the present moment is the fact that moderating influences are being brought to bear by Germany, the close ally of Austria-Hungary, and by Bulgaria, the comrade in arms of Serbia. Both of these nations are now exerting themselves to avert a conflict.

The views of Austria-Hungary concerning the future of European Turkey are pretty well known to include access to the eastern markets, the integrity of Albania, including the Adriatic coast of that country, and compensation for Roumania, which has always contended that when Bulgarian territory is extended her borders should likewise spread.

The Austro-Hungarian minister at Belgrade, who has just returned to his post, informed the Serbian government of these proposals and suggested that a reasonable settlement would be that Austria in return for corresponding privileges in the Balkan ports and on the railroads leading to them, should give Serbia running privileges over the line that is to be built to the port of Durazzo and that the two countries together should use the port as a free port.

The existing jealousies are so intense, however, that it will take a lot of pressure to induce either Austria or Serbia to recede from its demands. Austria, in fact, takes so seriously the advance of a Serbian force toward the port of Durazzo that she has dispatched a steamer there to take off Austrian residents when the Serbian soldiers arrive.

Serbia's friend, Russia, is also preparing for eventualities. Besides keeping her time-expired men in the army, she is mobilizing her forces. At Sebastopol transports have been prepared to convey Russian troops across the Black sea, and her arsenals and commissariat departments are working night and day.

"For the whole of Europe to be plunged into war simply over the question whether Serbia shall have a port on the Adriatic sea is an eventuality too monstrous to be entertained." This quotation from one of the leading newspapers of Paris fairly sums up France's attitude toward the Balkan danger.

All the diplomatic pressure possible will be exerted at Vienna, Belgrade and St. Petersburg to induce the adoption of conciliatory policies at what is regarded as the critical moment for European peace.

The suggestion by the British premier, Mr. Asquith, that all specific questions, such as the distribution of ports on the Adriatic sea, should be postponed, finds great favor in France, where it is thought that if such subsidiary problems can be relegated to the future the danger of a European conflict will pass away.

According to a dispatch from Uskup, Turkey, the vanguard of the Serbian army has reached the coast of the Adriatic sea, without meeting any armed resistance during its march through Albania, though its progress was slow on account of the deep snow. This furnishes an "accomplished" fact in the seaport controversy that may hasten the decision of the powers.

Rob Saloon Safe of $2500.
Chicago, Nov. 12.—Robbers blew open the safe in a saloon at West Madison and Halsted streets and escaped with $2500, after binding the bartender and porter with ropes. The thieves wrapped a large rug about the safe and executed their work so skillfully that 100 guests in a hotel above the saloon were not awakened.

2,500,000 Apples on Show.
Spokane, Wash., Nov. 12.—Amid the blowing of steam whistles and the ringing of bells the fifth national apple show was opened here. It is estimated that upwards of 2,500,000 apples are in place at the exhibition.

$500,000 to Harvard.
Boston, Nov. 12.—The bulk of the property of the late Dr. Arthur T. Cabot, of Brookline, estimated at $500,000, is to go to Harvard university at the death of Mrs. Cabot, according to the provisions of the will.

A half day's work in the orchard with the manure spreader will show up when apples are ripe next summer.

FEAR A LYNCHING; RUSH MEN TO JAIL

Three Negroes Accused of Brutal Crime.

Kennett Square, Pa., Nov. 12.—Women in this section of Chester county are considerably relieved because of the capture of three colored men, Thomas Matthews, John Crone and William Asbury, who are accused of having broken into the house of Albin Dilworth two weeks ago and attacking his daughter, fifty years old.

Matthews is alleged to have confessed. The attack was so brutal and the ire of the residents were stirred to such a pitch that the authorities quickly arrested the men and had them in the West Chester prison before letting the public know of the capture, for they feared a lynching might be attempted.

On Halloween, at about midnight, three masked men went to the house of Dilworth in a secluded spot near Rosedale. Dilworth is eighty-seven years old and his wife is more than eighty. They knocked on the door and asked that Miss Emma Dilworth come downstairs, as her sister wished to see her. The family suspected something amiss and Miss Dilworth decided not to go to the door.

The men were enraged and stoned the house, shattering nearly every window. Then they broke in the door, went to the room of Miss Dilworth and pulled her out. The three occupants of the house fought the intruders and the daughter broke away, only to be seized again and dragged out to the barn, where she was terribly beaten and abused and left almost dead. In the scuffle she was shot in the head over the eye and may lose her eyesight. Mrs. Theodore Woodward, a sister, found her in the barn the next morning.

TO PROTECT AMERICANS

Great Britain and Russia Have Already Undertaken That Task.
Washington, Nov. 12.—The European powers most intimately concerned in the Balkan situation have undertaken to extend protection to Americans in Turkey.

The American embassies in Europe were instructed when informing the various nations of the decision of the United States to send the cruisers Tennessee and Montana to Asiatic Turkey, to inquire whether provision had been made or was contemplated by them in the interest of American citizens in Turkey.

Replies indicate that instructions issued by Great Britain and Russia anticipated the desires of the American government. The cutter Unalga was ordered to remain at Port Said, Egypt, for orders from Ambassador Rockhill at Constantinople.

NAB CRANK AT WHITE HOUSE

Indiana Man Wanted to See President About High Living Cost.
Washington, Nov. 12.—A man claiming to be Jesse Dowdell, of Silverwood, Ind., who insisted upon seeing President Taft to get him to lower the cost of living, was taken into custody at the White House.

He was unarmed and will be held for examination. The prisoner told the police he had tried to see Secretary Knox, of the state department, and James Bryce, the British ambassador.

Bad News Proves Fatal.
Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—While reading the newspapers, Mrs. Elizabeth Matthews, of 125 North Wanamaker street, learned of the death of her mother. She was stricken with apoplexy from the shock and died.

Autoist Burns to Death.
Berresford, S. D. Nov. 12.—Postmaster C. A. Ramsdell, of Berresford, was burned to death under his automobile when the machine turned turtle while he was returning from Sioux Falls.

TO PENSION THEIR EMPLOYEES

Bell Telephone Co. Sets Aside $10,000,000.

ACTION IS VOLUNTARY

Pensions For Retired Workers and Benefits For the Injured or Sick Ones.

Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—Announcement was made of the establishment on Jan. 1 of a sick benefit, life insurance and pension system by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and Associated Companies and the Western Electric Company, all constituting the Bell Telephone system.

The various companies employ a total of about 175,000 persons, who, with their dependents, constitute an army of about a quarter of a million people. A fund of $10,000,000, provided entirely by the company and without contributions of any kind from the employees, will be available for the work.

Male employees sixty years old and twenty years or more in the service may be pensioned or they may be retired at the option of the company when they have reached fifty-five years of age and have been twenty-five years in the service, or an employee thirty years in service may be pensioned regardless of age on approval of the president of the company. The pension ages for female employees will be five years less in each instance.

The amount of pension is based on years of service and amount of pay and will be one per cent of the annual pay for ten years, multiplied by the number of years of service. No pension will be less than $20 per month.

In case of accidents occurring in the course of work and due to the work, the employee will receive full pay for thirteen weeks and half pay for the remainder of disability in case of total disability, and full pay for thirteen weeks and half pay until able to earn a livelihood, not exceeding six years, in case of partial disability.

Those disabled by sickness or accident outside of the regular course of duty after ten years in service will receive full pay for thirteen weeks and half pay for thirty-nine weeks; if from five to ten years in the service, full pay for thirteen weeks and half pay for thirteen weeks; if from two to five years in the service, full pay for four weeks and half pay for nine weeks.

SOCIALIST A SUICIDE

J. A. Weyland, Founder of Appeal to Reason, Ends Life at Girard, Kan.

Girard, Kan., Nov. 12.—J. A. Weyland, owner of Appeal to Reason, a Socialist paper here, shot and killed himself at his home in this city.

So far as is known Weyland left no word explaining his action, but it was said by Fred Warren, editor of the Appeal, that Weyland had been despondent for several weeks.

It was said that Weyland had been worrying over the possible action of a federal grand jury to be held at Fort Scott next week, before which it was expected charges would be placed against Weyland and Warren of sending objectionable matter through the mails.

Warren said these worries on Weyland's part were unnecessary, as he (Warren) was the editor and lessee of the paper and solely responsible for its utterances.

Weyland founded the Appeal to Reason in Kansas City in 1895.

AMBASSADOR RESIGNS

Charles P. Bryan Will Not Return to Japan.

Washington, Nov. 12.—The resignation of Charles Page Bryan, United States ambassador to Japan, was announced at the state department.

In an official statement announcing the resignation it is said that Mr. Bryan's action is due to injuries received in a carriage accident in Japan, that may necessitate his undergoing an operation which would make it impossible for him to return to his post. In view of reports published about a month ago of Mr. Bryan's resignation and the announced reasons for it caused much comment.

Old Cattle Feud Revived.

Durango, Colo., Nov. 12.—A cattle feud of several years standing was revived in Cox Canyon, twelve miles south of here, on the New Mexico Colorado state line, when John Graves, of Cedar Hill, N. M., shot and probably fatally wounded Samuel Truby, of Elco, Colo.

President at Work on Message.

Washington, Nov. 12.—President Taft remained in his study to work on his message to congress and to take up accumulated business. Secretary Knox was the only caller on his list. The president's lame right ankle is better.

Is It Your Kidneys?

Don't mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Gettysburg Citizen Gives a Valuable Hint.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary troubles sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is where danger often lies. You should realize that these troubles often lead to dropsy or Bright's disease. An effective remedy for weak or diseased kidneys is Doan's Kidney Pills. Read the experience of a resident of Gettysburg who has tested Doan's.

Charles Wilson, farmer, R. F. D. 5, Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I have used several boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and have found them satisfactory for kidney complaint. I had sharp twinges across the small of my back and in my sides. By using Doan's Kidney Pills in time I was rid of these troubles. I strongly recommend this preparation."

Fashion's Fancies

Platts open toward the foot.
On the short bolero jackets the sleeves are three-quarters long and cuffed.
The new draped effects in dresses remind one very strongly of the polonaise.
Very smart, indeed, are ostrich plumes in full browns of changeable silk.
There is a new tone of blue, very bright and clear, the bleu Vierge.
Pearl embroideries are to be in vogue; so are jet embroideries.
In the new corset for stout figures a great deal of elastic is used.
The long, loose peasant coat is usually revived at this time of year because of its convenience for traveling.
On a large hat of black plush a bow of pale rose crepe de chine was the only trimming. This is an excellent model for a young girl.
A band of black velvet high round the neck is thoroughly fixed in fashionable favor, particularly on young women or on those with silver hair.

Not So Mean.

BYRCE TO CONTINUE CANAL NEGOTIATIONS

Won't Quit Until Pending Questions Are Settled.

London, Nov. 12.—James Bryce, the British ambassador to the United States, whose resignation was announced, will remain at Washington until all pending negotiations have been cleared up. These include, it is understood, the question of the Panama canal.
The British foreign office is not prepared to issue a statement in regard to Mr. Bryce's retirement or as to the appointment of his successor, who will undoubtedly be Sir Cecil Arthur Spring-Rice.
It was said at the foreign office that Mr. Bryce will endeavor to leave a clean slate for the new ambassador.
With the exception of the official Westminster Gazette, the comments of the newspapers on Mr. Bryce's service at Washington are most unfavorable. This is due to the assistance he gave the Canadian government, under Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in the negotiation of the reciprocity treaty with the United States, for which the Unionist press is unable to forgive him.
The West Minister Gazette says: "It is the fashion for small fry Unionists to deride and attack Ambassador Bryce, but his record is an admirable one, and there is nothing in it which does not redound to his honor. He has been extremely popular in the United States, and at the same time a vigilant guardian of the interests of his country. His successor, who has already served in Washington under the late Lord Parnell, is a diplomat of the first order, but he will get a warm welcome, and we feel sure that his great abilities will find ample scope in his new work."

PRISONERS YEARS ILLEGALLY

insane Men Sent to Ohio Hospital and Forgotten.
Columbus, O., Nov. 12.—The discovery was made of the plight of four penitentiary prisoners who, because they were insane and transferred from the state prison to the hospital, have been unlawfully held for years.
John H. Whaler, sent to the penitentiary in 1874, has been confined for thirty-three years after his term expired. L. B. Childster, a forger, received in 1878, should have been released in 1884. Jerry Carter, sentenced for arson, has been detained twenty-four years. Charles Willis should have been released twenty-seven years ago.
The prisoners will be transferred immediately to their respective counties to be prosecuted. Their plight was discovered when the state hospital authorities submitted a bill for their keep.

BRITISH CABINET MEETS DEFEAT

Financial Amendment to Home Rule Voted Down.

MINISTERS WON'T RESIGN

Defeat Does Not Impose Necessity of Retirement, Which Foreign Complications Forbid.

London, Nov. 12.—The British cabinet was defeated by a vote of 239 to 206 on an amendment proposed by the Unionist party to a financial clause of the home rule bill while it was under discussion in committee of the house of commons.
The Asquith government is now faced with three possible courses. The cabinet can resign, it can drop the home rule bill, or it can bring forward a motion to recommit the bill and obtain the opinion of the full house on the vote, which was taken after it had given due notice of its intention to do so.

The general opinion is that the government will move for the recommitment of the bill and will not resign, in view of the fact that the division was unexpected and occurred on Monday, when many of the supporters of the government had not returned from their week-end vacations. The resignation of the cabinet also is considered unlikely in face of the international crisis over the Balkans.

Sir Frederick Banbury, a Unionist member for the city of London, moved an amendment providing that the total payment from the Imperial exchequer to the Irish parliament should not exceed $12,500,000, exclusive of the amount received from Irish taxation and having regard to the amount saved in the Irish administration by the transfer of certain services to the control of the Irish government.

Herbert Samuel, the postmaster general, in opposing Sir Frederick Banbury's amendment to the home rule bill said it would mean that the total sum payable to Ireland would be limited to $12,500,000 a year. The revenue from Irish taxation would be $17,000,000, estimated on the present basis of Irish revenue, and the amendment would mean that the sum handed back to Ireland would be $12,500,000 for services which cost $20,000,000 a year.

When the result of the vote was announced the Unionists present cheered wildly. Premier Asquith, when he came in, announced that the sitting would be adjourned.

Sharp divisions in the meetings of committees of the house of commons are not unusual, although this is the first experience of the kind of the present government. Arthur J. Balfour, when he was premier, suffered in this way several times in his last parliament.

There has been considerable opposition by members on the ministerial side of the house to the financial provisions of the home rule bill. Some seventy Liberal members have given voice to their objection to the Irish parliament being given control of the customs, as they argue that such control would enable the Irish parliament to introduce protection.
The followers of William O'Brien announced their intention of withdrawing from the house during the proceedings of the committee on the finance clause of the bill.

JACK JOHNSON APPEALS

Negro's Case to Supreme Court—Attacks White Slave Act.
Washington, Nov. 12.—Jack Johnson, pugilist, through his attorney, has filed a motion in the supreme court for permission to give bail, pending a hearing before the United States district court in northern Illinois, on an indictment charging a violation of the white slave traffic act.
In support of the motion it was said the district judge demanded $30,000 bail, which was declared excessive, and had refused to accept a certificate of deposit for $30,000 in lieu of bail.
It is further said the district judge had stated that he would not accept a surety company upon the bond. Johnson's attorney also claims that the white slave traffic act is unconstitutional.

The court gave Solicitor General Bullitt until Wednesday to file a brief in opposition to Johnson's plea.

Anti-T. R. Editor Held.

Marquette, Mich., Nov. 12.—George A. Newett, editor and publisher of the Ishpeming from Ore, whom Colonel Roosevelt recently charged with criminal libel, waived preliminary examination and was held in bonds of $500 to the December term of court.

STABBED IN WOMAN'S ROOM

Assailant Opens Apartment Door, Attacks Him and Then Flees.
New York, Nov. 12.—Frederick Judson, who says he is the son of a rich Chicago bond broker, was seriously stabbed in an apartment at 3 West One Hundred and Fourth street, and detectives are looking for his assailant who, they declare, is known to them.

Judson was taken to the J. Hood Wright hospital from the apartment house at 446 Central Park West, to where he ran after the attack.
According to the police, he was calling on a Mrs. Danna in the One Hundred and Fourth street apartment, when a man appeared and attacked him.

Judson had come to New York from Philadelphia, presumably on a business trip, and his friends know nothing of the reasons for the attack. According to the story told by the injured man and others who saw him flee from the apartment after the attack, he was calling at the apartment when the door suddenly opened, a man appeared and attacked him. Judson defended himself as well as he could, but was stabbed several times and finally managed to escape from the apartment and down the stairs.

Running into the street, he staggered around the corner and into the lobby of the apartment house in Central Park West, where he told the janitress that he had been stabbed. He collapsed on the floor and the woman immediately called police headquarters and an ambulance was sent to the house.

WILSON TO GIVE OUT TARIFF PLAN SOON

Will Tell Whether He Intends to Call Extra Session.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 12.—President-elect Wilson indicated that he might make an announcement within a few days as to whether or not he would call an extra session of congress to revise the tariff.

He had intended delaying any announcement until after his return from his vacation, about Dec. 15. It was suggested to him, however, that congressmen would benefit by an early announcement in that they could arrange for accommodations at Washington for a definite period.

"I hadn't thought of that," said the governor. "Of course, I don't see any public need for announcing my decision now, except, perhaps, to quiet any speculation as to whether there is going to be early action or not."

He had fully intended to wait before announcing what I was going to do until after I got back from my vacation. I was going to hear and read opinions in the meantime."

"It's very interesting, the consensus of opinion on the extra session," said the president-elect.

Mr. Wilson expects to name, along with the other members of his cabinet, an executive for the proposed department of labor.
The governor said he was turning over in his mind ideas for his annual message to the New Jersey legislature, which convenes Jan. 1. He said he would urge especially the adoption of resolutions ratifying the constitutional amendments for an income tax and the direct election of senators.

GAVE LIFE FOR FRIENDS

Clarence Rickard, of Honesdale, Pa., Killed by Train.
Scranton, Pa., Nov. 12.—Clarence Rickard, of Honesdale, gave up his life in order that his sweetheart, Miss Lou Simpson, and his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Steven Davey, might be spared.
The four were walking along the Lackawanna tracks near New Milford and stepped from one track to avoid a fast train. They stepped directly in front of an engine traveling in the other direction.
Rickard realized the danger and pushed his companions from the track, but in doing so tripped on the rail and fell beneath the wheels.

Gamblers Held Up.

Stamton, Ill., Nov. 12.—A masked man held up and robbed nine men in a gambling room here and took nearly $1000 from the tables and the pockets of the men.

MR CORAN'S ELECTION

Ten o'clock! Big Ben left no doubt about it; for the giant clock in the tower of the house of parliament is a noisy neighbor. The last stroke thundered out as I climbed the stairs that led to the modest lodging of Inspector Addington Peace, and silence had fallen as I knocked at his door. I was alone that night and in the mood when a man escapes from himself to seek a friend.

I found the little detective at his open window, staring across the tumbled roofs to where the abbey towers rose under the summer moon. The evening breeze that came creeping up with the tide blew gratefully after the heat of the July day. He glanced at me over his shoulder with a short nod of welcome.

"Even the police grow sentimental on such a night," I suggested.

"Or philosophic."

"The reflections of Diogenes the detective, or the Aristotle of Scotland Yard," I laughed. "May I inquire as to the cause of such profound thought?"

He held out a slip of paper, which I took and carried to the central lamp. It was an old newspaper clipping, stained and blurred, relating in six lines how James Coran, described as a student, had been charged at the Bow street police court with drunkenness, followed by an aggravated assault on the constable who arrested him. He was fined three pounds or seven days. That was all.

"Not a subject of earth-shaking importance," I said.

"No; but it has proved a sufficient excuse for blackmail."

"Then the victim is a fool," I answered hotly. "Why, from the look of the paper the affair must have taken place a dozen years ago."

"Thirty-two years this month."

"Which means that the riotous student is now a man of over fifty. If James Coran has gone down the hill, the past can't hurt him now; if he has led a respectable life, surely he can afford to neglect the scamp who threatens to rake up so mild a scandal. Blackmail for a spree back in the seventies—it's ridiculous, inspector."

The little man stood with his hands behind him and his head on one side, watching me with benevolent amusement. When he spoke it was in the ponderous manner which he sometimes assumed, a manner that always reminded me of a university professor explaining their deplorable errors to his class.

"Mr. James Coran is a respectable middle-class widower who lives with his sister Rebecca and two daughters in the little town of Brendon, twenty-four miles from London. He arrives at the 'Fashionable Clothing company'—his London establishment in Oxford street—at ten o'clock in the morning, leaving for home by the 5:18. In his spare time he performs a variety of public duties at Brendon. He is a recognized authority on drains, and has produced a pamphlet on dust carts. As a temperance orator his local reputation is great, and his labors in the cause of various benevolent associations have been suitably commemorated by a presentation clock, three inkstands, and a silver tankard. His interests are limited to Brendon and Oxford street; of world movements he thinks no more than the caterpillar on a leaf considers the general welfare of the cabbage patch. Please remember the facts, Mr. Phillips, in consideration of his case."

"Six months ago an envelope arrived at his house with two inclosures. One was the newspaper clipping you hold; the other a letter denouncing him as a hypocrite, and warning him that unless the sum of twenty pounds was placed in the locker of a little summer house at the end of his garden the writer would expose him to all Brendon in his true character as a convicted drunkard."

"Coran was in despair. He had imagined his unfortunate spree long forgotten. Not even his own relatives were aware of it. He was trying for a seat on the county council; the election was due in a month, and he relied for his success on the support of the temperance party. As an election weapon the old scandal could be used with striking effect. So he paid—as many a better man has been fool enough to do under like circumstances."

"In three days—on Saturday, that is—the election takes place. This morning he received a letter similar to the first, save that the demand was for a hundred pounds. He had just sense enough to see that if he allowed himself to be blackmailed again it would merely encourage further attempt at extortion. So when he arrived in town, he took a cab to Scotland Yard. I heard his story, and caught the next train down to Brendon. I did not call at the house, but gathered a few details concerning him and his family. In all particulars he seems to have spoken the truth."

"Must the hundred pounds be placed in the summer house tonight?"

"No. The blackmailer gave him a day to collect the money. It must be in the locker tomorrow night by eleven o'clock."

"Which means that you will match the place and pull out the fish as he takes the bait. It seems simple enough, anyhow."

"Oh, yes," he said. "But it is the faulty sense of proportion in Coran which provides the interest in the case. Even at the time the scandal was no very serious matter. What must be his frame of mind that it should terrorize him after all these years?"

When I left him half an hour later it was with the promise that I should have first news of the comedy's conclusion—for a tragedy it certainly was not, save for the blackmailer, if Peace should catch him.

The following afternoon I was sitting in my study with the cigarette—that comes so pleasantly after tea and buttered toast—between my lips, when my servant, Jacob Hendry, thrust in his head to announce visitors. They came hard upon his heels—a long, gray-whiskered man in the lead, and the inspector trotting behind. As they cleared the door the little detective twisted round his companion and waved an introductory hand.

"This is Mr. James Coran," he said. "We want your assistance, Mr. Phillips."

The long man stood staring at me and screwing his hands together in evident agitation. He had a hollow, melancholy face, a weak mouth, and eyes of an indecisive gray. From his square-toed shoes to the bald patch on the top of his head he was extremely, almost flagrantly, respectable.

"I am taking a great liberty, sir," he said humbly, "but you are, as it were, a straw to one who is sinking beneath the waters of affliction. Do you, by chance, know the town of Brendon?"

"I have never been so fortunate as to visit it," I told him.

"I understand from the police officer here that you have traveled abroad. Accustomed, therefore, to the corruption that taints the municipal life of other cities, you can scarcely comprehend the whole-souled enthusiasm with which we of Brendon approach the duties, may I say the sacred trust, of administering to the sanitary and moral welfare of our county. Those whom we select must be of unstained reputation. From a place on the sports committee of the flower show I myself have risen through successive grades until even the houses of parliament seemed within the limit of legitimate ambition. But now, sir, now it seems that, through a boyish indiscretion when a student at the Regent's street polytechnic, I may be denounced in my advancing years as a roysterer, a tippler, almost a convicted criminal. They would not hesitate. Mark my words, sir, if Horledge and Panton—my opponent's chief supporters in Saturday's election—are informed of these facts, they will mention them on platforms, they may even display them on boards."

He paused, sighed deeply, and wiped his face with a large silk pocket handkerchief. The situation was ridiculous enough, yet not without a certain pathos underlying the humor, for the man was sincerely in earnest.

"If I can help you, Mr. Coran, I am at your disposal," I told him.

"It is a matter of considerable delicacy," he said. "My younger daughter, Emily, has formed an attachment which is most disagreeable to me."

"Indeed," I murmured.

"The young man, Thomas Appleton by name, is of more than doubtful character. Miss Rebecca, my sister, has seen him boasting on the Thames in the company of ladies whose appearance was—er—distinctly theatrical."

"You surprise me."

"He has been known to visit music halls."

"Did Miss Rebecca see him there, too?"

"Certainly not, sir; but she has it from a sure source. It was obviously my duty to forbid him the house. I performed that duty, and extorted a promise from my daughter that she would cease to communicate with him. In my belief, it is he who has discovered the scandal to which I need not again refer, and in revenge, is levying this blackmail. The law shall strike him, if there is justice left in England."

"And where do I come in?" I asked, for he had paused in a flurry of indignation.

"Perhaps I had better explain," Peace interposed. "Owing to this unfortunate love affair, it is plain that no member of Mr. Coran's family must learn that this young man is suspected or that steps are being taken for his arrest. It would not be unreasonable to fear that he might be warned. I am staying with Mr. Coran tonight, but I do not want to go alone. I might take an assistant from the Yard, but it is hard to pick a man who has not 'criminal investigation department' stamped upon him. You look innocent enough, Mr. Phillips. Will you come with us, and lend me a hand?"

I agreed at once. It could not fail to be an amusing adventure. After some discussion, it was arranged that Peace and I should be introduced as business friends of Mr. Coran, who had asked us down to Brendon on a sudden invitation. A telegram was sent off to that effect.

For the first fifteen minutes of the train we shared a crowded compartment. Gradually, however, our companions dropped away until we were left to ourselves. Mr. Coran was in evident hesitation of mind. He shifted about, screwing his hands together with a most doleful countenance. When he commenced to speak he leant forward as if afraid that the very cushions might overhear him,

"I have mentioned my sister Rebecca," he said. "She is a woman of remarkable character."

"Indeed," I murmured, for he chose to address me more directly.

"We have differed lately on several points of—er—local interest. It is very important that she should not learn the cause of my appeal to the police. Anything that aroused her suspicions might lead to consequences very disagreeable to myself."

"I will be discreet."

"My daughters will—er—benefit largely under her will. She would cut them out of it without hesitation. If she learnt that their father had been connected with so—er—disgraceful a scandal. You understand the situation?"

"Perfectly. It must render your position additionally unpleasant."

He sighed and relapsed into a melancholy silence, in which the train drew up at Brendon station. A cab was in waiting, into which we climbed. A couple of turns, a short descent, and we drew up at a gate in a long wall of flaming brick.

As we walked up the drive I looked carefully about me. The house was also of red brick and of mixed architecture. I believe the architect had intended it for the Tudor period, with variations suggested by modern sanitary requirements. The garden before the windows was of considerable size, with laurels and quick-growing shrubs lining the edge of a lawn and several winding walks. At the farther end a thatched roof, rising amongst the young trees, showed the position of the summer house which played so important a part in the story we had heard.

It was striking six as we entered the hall. Our host led us straight to our rooms on the first floor. We had been told not to bring dress clothes, so that ten minutes later we were ready to descend to the drawing room.

Mr. Coran's daughters, a pair of pretty, bright-faced girls, were seated in those careless attitudes which denote the expected appearance of strangers. Miss Rebecca, a tall, spectacled female, whose sixty years had changed curves for acute angles, reposed in the window, reading a volume of majestic size. She laid it down with a thump, removed her glasses and received us with great modesty and decorum. The inspector and a fox terrier, that set up a barking as we entered, were the only members of the party that seemed natural and at ease.

I found the dinner pass pleasantly enough, despite the gloom that radiated from the brother and sister.

Emily, the victim of the "unfortunate attachment," quite captured my fancy, though I am not a ladies' man. Twice we dared laugh, though the reproving eyes of the elders were constantly upon us. In the intervals of my talk with her I obtained the keenest enjoyment from listening to the conversation of Peace and Miss Rebecca. The lady cross-examined him very much as if he were a prisoner accused of various grave and monstrous offenses. Upon the question of anti-vivisection she was especially urgent.

"My brother refuses the movement his support," she said in a loud, firm voice. "My reply to him is torturer, inquisitor. What are your views on the subject?"

"The same, my dear madam, as your own," said the disgraceful little hypocrite. "How does the cause progress in Brendon?"

"I trust that in a few weeks our local branch will have been placed on such a basis as to be a model to the whole society."

"Aunt is rather a crank on anti-vivisection," whispered Miss Emily in my ear. "Do be careful, if she tackles you about it."

I laughed, and the subject changed between us.

After the ladies left, Coran began a gloomy autobiography. His family, he said, had been living in the north of England at the time of the London escape. No account of the affair, which appeared in only one paper, had reached them. He had left for Sheffield shortly afterwards, and it was not until ten years later that the death of his father had given him a couple of thousand pounds, with which he bought a share in his present business, which had greatly prospered.

The Point of View.

"This section is almost mountainous," remarked the pedestrian to his companion as they trudged along a country road one summer's day carrying heavy grips.

"Yes, it's a bit hilly," said the farmer a few minutes later as he drove his guest from the station in the big buckboard.

"Nice, rolling country, this," observed the automobilist to his chauffeur as they whizzed by in a big touring car.

"Gee, what a flat, uninteresting region," thought the aviator, looking down as he sailed over it in his majestic biplane.—Life.

A Fellow Feeling.

The hold-up man had his victim covered. Suddenly the latter, with hands held up, broke into a violent fit of sneezing.

Then the highwayman's face wrinkled and he sneezed, too.

Incidentally, they sneezed together. "Shake!" gasped the footpad, and put out his hand.

"Lay it there," wheezed the victim. One touch of hay fever makes the whole world kin.

Keep the feed troughs clean. It is a wasteful practice to mix manure with grain.

Letting the calf suck the cow the first day or two lessens the danger of milk fever.

If sows are expected to produce a fall litter, the spring litter should be weaned when about 10 weeks old.

Five or six of the twelve or thirteen species of beetles attacking stored grains are found usually in farmers' bins.

WILLING TO OBLIGE.

Horace—I say, old fellow, I wish you would intercede for me with that pretty niece of yours.

Harold—Sure, I will. Only the other day I told her you had more money than brains.

Horace—What did she say?

Harold—She wanted to know if you had as much as 30 cents.
